LIBRARIAN'S REPORT

It has been a busy year at the library and gratifying to note the interest shown by the townspeople, especially the children and the summer visitors. This year 179 patrons availed themselves of the use of the library and a big percentage was children. The circulation for the year is 2,841.

The State Library Commission has been generous and has given us 50 books of the better kind we could not buy with our small appropriation. Several townspeople have donated books and with those bought by the trustees and given by the commission we have added 164 books to our shelves.

We especially try to assist the students and when ordering books keep in mind their needs. The schools have made good use of the library. A traveling library sent out from the state library has been enjoyed and we hope to have another later.

Books have been left with Miss Peaslee at So. Danbury for the use of patrons there.

HARRIET G. MORRISON,

Librarian.

Flag Raising

Memorial Day exercises were held at the George Gamble Library May 30, 1935. Commemorative of that day was a flag displayed on the grounds of the George Gamble library through the aid of a newly erected flag pole. The erecting of this pole was a long cherished idea of Geo. A. Danforth, one of the library trustees, who solicited the aid of Frank J. Clews, and through the generosity of Clarence Fowler, who donated the necessary pipe, a metal pole was erected.

Through the willingness of Miss G. Cooper and Mrs. C. C. Morrison the school children attended.

The program was as follows: Line of march by children carrying flag from the Congregational church to library; prayer by the Rev. John MacKay, after which the flag bearers presented the flag to veterans, H. J. Danforth and Judge F. O. Sheldon, for the official flag raising.

The children sang while the flag was being raised, after which a firing squad composed of G. Wiggins, M. Bassett and C. A. Ordway fired the usual volley. Taps were sounded by Bugler Joseph Muldoon of Co. 126, C. C. C., who willingly offered his services. A recitation "The Flag" was given by Shirley Drake.

At the conclusion the children marched back to the church, where they were served with ice cream and cookies, which was made possible through the generosity of the townspeople.
